ADHD Awareness Month: Why the Orange Ribbons?
During the month of October, staff are wearing orange ribbons for ADHD Awareness Month!
How to support those with ADHD:
Strategies & Interventions
Immediate / Daily Supports

- Seat near the front and away from high-traffic distractions such as doors, windows and back of the classroom.
- Use a visual timer for every task
- Give instructions in very short chunks (one or two steps at a time)
- Provide movement breaks every 15–25 minutes (water run, stack chairs, quick stretch, jobs in the classroom)
- Allow quiet fidget tools
- Give a brain break card to use 2–3 times a day without needing to speak

Task & Behaviour Supports

- Break work into tiny pieces with a checklist
- Use First–Then language: e.g. first maths sheet, then 5 minutes iPad
- Offer immediate, specific praise or small rewards (stickers, verbal praise)
- Post a simple daily visual schedule on the desk
- Stand, kneel, or sit on the floor to work if it helps with focus

ADHD Awareness Month: Why the Orange Ribbons?
During the month of October, staff are wearing orange ribbons for ADHD Awareness Month!
Here are a few quick facts:

- Time blindness is a common trait. Many people with ADHD struggle with a sense of time passing or planning across long periods. The future can feel distant and abstract, making it easy to delay action until deadlines become urgent.
- Motivation Challenges: ADHD is linked to differences in dopamine regulation, making it harder to start or persist with tasks that aren't immediately rewarding.
- Overwhelming Goals: Large, vague goals like 'get healthier' or 'be more productive' can overwhelm executive functions, leading to avoidance or procrastination.

Next week …
Tricks for setting goals for those with ADHD.
